

Small Vineyards has a select group of individuals that we call “Friends of the Family”. These folks travel a lot, enjoy excellent food, and share our passion for inspired, small production wines from the Old World. Like us, they understand that the greatest art form is living well, and that wine is central to a great life, both symbolically and experientially.

If you have received an invitation to contact us from a Friend of the Family, we would invite you to drop us a line. Please email us at: kay@smallvineyards.net or feel free to call us at: 206 933 6767. Ask for Mr. Kay Syrrist (pronounced “Kai”), Our Chief Financial Officer and Member Relations Manager, or Mr. Josh Hanson, Director of Wine.

First, we would welcome you to peruse our web site, to better understand our philosophy, and our import portfolio. Just click on the name of a vineyard or wine, and you will find terrific information.

All of our estates harvest their grapes by hand, are family-owned, and use sustainable farming methods. Most importantly, they are exceptionally talented, serious winemakers that are at the top of their field.

At Small Vineyards, we specialize in discovering the best estates you have never heard of from Italy, and in 2008, Spain and Portugal. If you are a dyed-in-the-wool enophile, then you surely will know some of our vineyard partners, but probably not all. We believe discovery is one of the great joys in the world of wine. That is why we invite you, whenever you are in a great wine shop or top restaurant, to look – and ask for – this seal on the front of the bottle:

If you wish to contact us, please provide us with the following information:

- 1) The name of your Friend of the Family
- 2) Where you live (to verify availability of our wine in your area)
- 3) Wine or wines on our web site that seem of interest to you

We would be happy to recommend some amazing wines, and make sure you are able to purchase some special selections for your cellar.

Until then,

Ci sentiamo presto,

Small Vineyards
