PARTNERSHIP

Galo has been part of the Small
Vineyards family since 2008.

“Making wine is exciting,” says Galo López, who knows a thing or two about excitement – after pushing the limits for a decade, he has now retired as a bullfighter. In the heart of the Ribera del Duero, the 40 year-old is redefining one of the most prestigious zones in Spain. Every wine he makes is from a single cru, and he expertly coaxes remarkable nuance and subtlety from the brute power of his Tempranillo. A family estate for nearly 100 years, they stopped selling their grapes to Pingus in the mid-1990’s, and decided to put their ancient vines to far better, more personal use. With unyielding dedication and, happily, a tremendous talent for the craft, Galo has – in just a decade – made López Cristóbal one of the greatest estates in Spain.
